Two Ring Leaders Of Prison Riot Die As Guardsmen Smash Mutiny

DEER LODGE, Mont. (AP) — Rocket-firing National Guardsmen ended 36 hours of rebellion by Montana State Prison convicts early Saturday by storming the rebel defenses and rescuing 21 hostages.

The guardsmen needed only 2 1/4 hours to quell the uprising after surging into the prison at 3:45 a.m. under cover of bazooka, machine gun and rifle fire.

The prison's deputy warden was slain soon after the riot started Thursday afternoon. Two mutiny leaders died by what officials said was murder and suicide in the final moments of the showdown battle.

Guardsmen reached the 21 hostages within a minute after the attack started. The hostages' lives had been threatened by hanging, knifing, fire and other violence. None were injured.

Atty. Gen. Forrest H. Anderson, a member of the prison's administrative board, said several hours after the rebellion ended that it was an "insane outbreak by a few bad boys." He also asserted that Montana is "trying to keep 20th century hoodlums in a 19th century jail."

"This is like trying to run a zoo with the elephants in monkey cages and the monkeys in the elephant cages, in which case you can't control either the monkeys or the elephants."

The outbreak, he added, "makes all too clear the imperative need for prison facilities in which a modern program of segregation can be carried out." He praised Warden Floyd E. Powell and said he "has proven himself to be a mature and astute prison manager."

Powell described the disturbance as "definitely an escape attempt. It was not a riot."

Convicts were digging a tunnel when guardsmen burst in upon them.

The prison has 433 inmates and 127 employees.

Prison authorities said 25 guardsmen will patrol the prison area for at least a week and that highway patrolmen will continue on an alert basis.

The mutiny ring leaders, burglar Jerry Myles, 44, and murderer Lee Smart, 19, lay dead in the

TRUMAN BIRTHPLACE BECOMES MEMORIAL

LAMAR, Mo. (AP) — A tiny white frame cottage that cost only $685 when it was new will become a public shrine Sunday.

In its bedroom about 4 p. m. on May 8, 1884, was born Harry S. Truman who was to become the thirty-third president of the United States.

At approximately that same hour Sunday, Truman, now nearing his 75th birthday, will watch ownership of the property pass to the state of Missouri to be preserved for the nation as a permanent memorial.

It will be Truman's first visit to the cottage since August 1944, when he came here to receive official notification that he had been nominated to run for vice president on the Democratic ticket with the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Nab 4 Kane County Jail Escapees Who Stabbed Jailer As They Fled

AURORA, Ill. (AP) — A posse of lawmen armed with submachine guns Saturday captured three Kane County jail escapees hiding in a corn crib south of Aurora.

The fourth escapee was nabbed earlier Saturday on a Chicago street corner.

The four broke out of the county jail in Geneva Friday night. One stabbed the jailer as they fled.

Eight lawmen led by Sheriff Anthony G. Wegman and Aurora Police Chief Donald Curran nabbed Jack Vanderpool, 27, of Sandwich; Charles Seibert, 21, of Aurora; and Marvin Molenda, also 19, of Aurora.

John Olmstead, 21-year-old confidence man of Oak Lawn, called the ringleader in the jailbreak, was returned to a solitary confinement cell in the Kane County jail before the other three were found and returned.

Curran said the arrest of the trio followed an anonymous phone tip to Aurora police headquarters telling where the three had holed up.

Curran said the three were ordered to come out with their hands up, and Vanderpool jumped down from the upper level of the crib first, with his hands up, after one warning shot was fired. Seibert and Molenda followed.

Expect Several Close Mayoral Contests Tuesday

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Several close mayoral contests—some carrying upset possibilities—appear likely as Illinoisans prepare to vote Tuesday in this spring's last round of downstate municipal elections.

Democratic and Republican Party labels are generally absent, but vigorous campaigns have been waged on a variety of local issues in a number of communities.

Cairo, Centralia, Decatur and Princeton are electing their first city administrations since adoption of council-manager government, and that form of rule is the central issue in Elgin.

Daylight Saving Time is on ballots in Lincoln and Moline, and the tiny Henry County community of Bishop Hill will decide whether to shut off the spigots and ban the sale of liquor.

Elgin adopted council-manager rule five years ago, and this election finds sharply defined lines on the subject between two slates of candidates.

Close contests also are expected in some cities which more recently adopted council-manager rule. A Cairo auto dealer, Calvin E. Watson, ran a narrow first in the primary there and is opposed by Robert Peddie, operator of a barge landing. The incumbent mayor, Dr. Paul Schuh Baur, is retiring.

Princeton's Mayor Roy Rheeling is seeking re-election against Charles Diller, a farm implement dealer who came close in the primary.

In Decatur, former Mayor Charles E. Lee is making a new bid to run the city and is being challenged by Robert A. Grohne, a local industrialist who is also Decatur and Macon County Civil Defense director.

A Centralia businessman, Walter Shipp, was backed by city manager proponents in the primary and ran well ahead of his opposition. Robert E. Wilson, who is a railroad employee and city commissioner, Mayor H. B. (Shorty) Blanchard opposed managerial rule and did not seek re-election.

TORNADO HITS GODLEY, TEX. DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — A small tornado hit the town of Godley, 35 miles south of Fort Worth Saturday night, injuring one man and wrecking several homes and small barns.

The twister lashed out of a fast-moving hail, rain and wind storm speeding across north Texas.

MRS. NICHOLAS FREE ON BOND TO APPEAL HER CONVICTION

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — After two days in prison, Connie Nicholas went free on a donated bail bond Saturday to appeal her conviction for manslaughter of her wealthy lover, Forrest Teel.

Leaving the Indiana Women's Prison in cheerful spirit, she said, "The first thing I'm going to do is go to a drive-in and have a cheeseburger. Then I'm going to have that suds bath."

She left the prison in a car with her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Blankenship, to stay in their home during the appeal period.

The Blankenships live in New Whiteland, an all-new community of modest-priced homes 17 miles south of Indianapolis.

Before she was free to go home with the Blankenships, the 45-year-old double divorcee stopped at the downtown office of the bonding company. Although her right hand remained cramped in therapeutic harness, she managed to scrawl her signature on the $10,000 appearance bond.

Undersecretary Since Early '57; Promises 'To Do Best I Can'

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Christian A. Herter was chosen by President Eisenhower Saturday to be secretary of state. Herter promised to "do the very best I can."

The widely expected selection of Herter, 64, for the Cabinet post was announced by the President at a news conference at the Augusta National Golf Club. Herter was present.

Herter, former member of Congress and former governor of Massachusetts, has been undersecretary since early 1957. He succeeds John Foster Dulles whose resignation because of incapacitating cancer was accepted by Eisenhower last Wednesday.

The President said he will nominate Herter formally early this week. In Washington, Congress members generally praised the choice of Herter, and swift Senate confirmation was predicted.

Sen. J. William Fulbright (D-Ark.), chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, called a committee meeting for Tuesday to consider the nomination.

The committee chairman said Herter has arranged to appear personally before the public meeting Tuesday to discuss his nomination.

Herter, acting secretary since the onset of Dulles' illness in February, takes over as State Department chief at a crucial time in negotiations with the Soviet Union.

Castro Does His Sightseeing In Midnight Tour

WASHINGTON (AP)—One reason Fidel Castro called off a sightseeing tour scheduled for Saturday was that he already had seen some of the sights.

The Cuban revolutionary leader, surrounded by security precautions since he arrived last Wednesday, made a four-hour nocturnal tour of the city Friday at midnight while most of his guards thought he was sleeping.

"We shouldn't forget that he is a young man and likes such things," an embassy aide said. Sgt. Angel Saavedra told newsmen that the 32-year-old Prime Minister set out in an automobile with five companions several hours after attending an embassy reception.

It was one of those spur of the moment things, Saavedra said, and resulted in no untoward incidents.

Another embassy reception was arranged for Saturday night. Guests included the diplomatic corps, members of Congress and other Washington notables.

Sunday night the bearded Cuban leader will appear on a television program (NBC Meet the Press) and then confer with Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

Violence In Kentucky Mines Could Spread To W. Virginia

WASHINGTON (AP) — More blood is likely to be spilled in the east Kentucky coal fields. The violence could spread to West Virginia.

What is behind the fierce tensions in these mining areas? The answer is simple: Human beings are caught on an economic rack. It is an old story.

The big, relatively prosperous mine owners and the United Mine Workers Union agreed to a new wage contract last fall. This called for a $2-a-day pay boost, increasing the basic wage to $24.25 a day. Big mines can afford it.

But invariably there are smaller mines that can't afford it, or at least say they can't. They haven't put in the machines that enable the bigger mines to absorb the higher wage costs and still operate at a profit.

When these balking mines try to operate without a union contract, UMW pickets appear. It is UMW policy that a mine that can't meet the industry wage scale has no business being in business.

In the coal areas this has a grim meaning because most residents depend on mining for a livelihood. There isn't much other work available.

A further complication this year is a new UMW contract proviso. This binds all the mine owners signing the contract to boycott coal produced by mines not under contract.

Christian Herter

In the continuing effort to ease East-West tensions, he will represent the United States at a Paris meeting of Western foreign ministers starting April 29. He will go on from there to Geneva for that group's session with the Soviet foreign minister, commencing May 11.

The White House acknowledged for the first time that Eisenhower personally had suggested to Herter last Monday that he undergo a new physical checkup to determine whether he was up to the crushing grind of the No. 1 State Department position.

Herter has had arthritis of the hips for the last 10 or 15 years and now walks most of the time with lightweight metal crutches to ease his discomfort.

The White House reported that Herter had a complete medical check at Johns Hopkins University Hospital at Baltimore, Md., last Wednesday, the day Dulles resigned.

"Everything was very good," said Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty regarding the examination results.

Eisenhower's Monday suggestion to Herter that he have a medical examination was made at the White House during a 24-hour interruption of the President's Augusta vacation.

By that time Dulles' doctors had discovered that his cancer had spread from the abdominal region to the neck area. The physicians undoubtedly had told Eisenhower that Dulles never would be able to resume full-time work.

Herter was flown to Augusta by Army helicopter from his plantation near Green Pond, S.C. He is resting there this weekend and plans to be back in Washington Monday.

Kennedy Labor Bill Faces Showdown In Senate This Week

WASHINGTON (AP) — Youthful Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) puts his head into a political buzz saw this week. This will be the showdown voting in the Senate on his labor regulation bill.

Dozens of amendments already have been proposed by senators attacking the complex 59-page measure from many different angles.

Nixon Praises Herter In Speech At Editors' Meet

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon told the nation's newspaper editors Sunday night Christian A. Herter is eminently qualified to carry forward retired Secretary of State John Foster Dulles' policies and principles.

Herter was named by President Eisenhower Saturday to succeed the cancer-stricken Dulles.

In remarks prepared for the closing banquet of the annual convention of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, Nixon said: "Christian Herter is a man who by background, experience and temperament is eminently qualified to carry forward Secretary Dulles' policies and principles."

"Those who have had the opportunity to know and work with him, as I have since 1947 when I served under him on the Herter committee, know him as one of America's foremost students of foreign affairs and as a tenacious

As I See It

by E. W. BROWN

Americans have always had a reputation of being big thinkers. We toss superlatives around like popping corn.

And sometimes our high phrases bounce back like a yo-yo. Take all our fancy missiles and rockets. Look at the names they have . . . Atlas, Thor, Vanguard, Jupiter. They're tremendous . . . but as some comedian pointed out recently, when they don't work the newspapers are black with headlines saying, "Thor Fails!" or "Vanguard Fails!" Naturally we feel as let down as though we'd jumped out of an airplane without a parachute. Now this fellow suggests we call our space missiles with usual names like "Tom," "Dick," "Harry," etc. Then if the headlines roar "Tom Fails!" . . . it won't be such a let down.

We used to think it was foolish when a child cried for the moon . . . but the way things are going, it looks as though he may get it. And in this time of scientific marvels the Ford and Plymouth cars are leading the way in the automotive industry. Attractive, modern styling, driving ease, luxurious riding comfort, safe body construction and economy of operation are all yours when you proudly drive your new Chrysler or Plymouth from this Agency. Farmers Bank To Feature New Electronic Banking

A new era in local banking is about to begin with the announcement that electronic banking soon will be in operation at Farmers State Bank and Trust Company.

Arthur French, President of Farmers State Bank and Trust Company, said the introduction of the science of electronics to banking marks the end of the tedious, time-consuming hand processing of checks and other bank record keeping.

Farmers State Bank and Trust Company's new electronic system will use high-speed automatic machines, equipped with an electronic mechanism, which automatically records a depositor's checking account balance on magnetic black accuracy and help the Bank speed up service, while holding down service charges in an era of rising costs.

"All our customers will need to do to enjoy the full benefits of our new electronic system," Mr. French concluded, "is to be sure to use both their Electronic Code Number with their regular signature when writing checks and deposit slips. This Electronic Code Number is an additional safeguard for your account and will soon be assigned to each customer's account."

"There is no doubt that the electronic equipment will streamline our operation," Mr. French continued. "The machines will bring satisfaction to our employees by removing a great deal of manual posting from their day's work. More important, these machines will produce the customer's records with an unprecedented degree of

How Many College Boys Will A Bus Hold? We Will Know Later Today

Ring Lardner's famed character Nathan Detroit had his floating crap game, but have you ever heard of a floating men's college? If you don't believe it, you are welcome to come see for yourself today at 2 p.m., at the corner of Hardin and East Chambers, when the entire MacMurray College for Men will be stuffed into a bus! That is, if they can get everyone in.

The objective is to emulate some of the recent shenanigans perpetrated by colleges across the country, in filling telephone booths and Volkswagens to record capacities. Last week, for example, 40 Long Beach, Calif., College students sardined themselves into a defenseless Volkswagen parked in front of a fraternity house.

Several weeks previous, students at various colleges piled into telephone booths to unbelievable numbers. The record is 34. Needless to say, nobody could answer the phone if it rang, although one group actually claimed that it could do that.

Start After Dinner
Students will start jamming into the bus immediately after dinner Sunday in Norris House, with visitors welcome to watch.

It will be a relatively harmless way of shedding energy, which usually is the bugaboo of colleges about this time of year, MacMurray officials believe. Other colleges have indulged in more destructive activities, including some of the top eastern schools.

For example, Yale students were penalized—4,000 of them—as a result of hazing policemen at a St. Patrick's Day parade. In the main, they snowballed them. And of course there are the traditional party raids, common particularly to Ivy League schools.

Winners of the 1959 essay contest sponsored by the Morgan County Tuberculosis & Public Health League are announced by Mrs. Verne Anderson, secretary of the association. The three judges, all registered nurses, were Miss Bea McCaherty, Miss Maxine Hoots and Mrs. Dorothy Witte.

The four winners are all students of Routt High school, the students of Routt submitting 99% of the entries.

Miss Kathleen Curtis, 16, was awarded first prize, a $25 U.S. Savings bond. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Curtis, 265 North Webster avenue, and is a junior at Routt High school.

Other winner are:
Second, Thomas Henderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Henderson, 738 E. State—$10.00 in cash.

Third, Betty Watts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Watts, No. 1 Pine Place—$5.00 in cash.

Fourth, Dianne Sassenberger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sassenberger, 264 East Greenwood—$5.00 in cash.

The contest was open to all high school students in Morgan county beginning Feb. 9 and ending late in March. Each of the three judges read the essays and decided upon the four winners.

Three members of the Jacksonville High School faculty have been selected by the National Science Foundation to attend science institutes in various parts of the United States this summer. This program has been established to help further interest in science in the schools and to meet the rapidly growing needs of the schools of our nation in the numerous aspects of presentation of science to students.

The teachers from Jacksonville High School who have been awarded scholarships are Phil Clary, who will attend Indiana State University; John Hollowell, who goes to Knox College, Galesburg, Illinois; and Donald Meyer, who plans to enroll at Rutgers University, in New Brunswick, New Jersey. Each instructor will attend a six weeks course with the exception of Clary, who goes to Indiana University for ten weeks. It is possible to earn six college graduate credits for the summer session.

The National Science Foundation each year, along with a number of large companies, sponsors and provides an opportunity for selected science teachers to go to college in order that they may bring into the classroom new techniques and ideas. This type of program for science instructors has been brought about by an ever-increasing advance in science, a need for technologists, and a shortage of qualified science teachers for our public schools.

GO TO CHURCH

C. OF C. BANQUET SPEAKER

WILLIAM N. CLARK

Financial Editor, Chicago Tribune

Jacksonville Chamber of Commerce members are certain to hear an outstanding address Saturday evening, April 25, when William N. Clark, Financial Editor of The Chicago Tribune, speaks on "The Crystal Ball." The annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce will be held at the Dunlop hotel.

Mr. Clark's versatility is well known in Jacksonville — he is qualified to speak on numerous subjects. The business outlook will no doubt be his main theme.

Mr. Clark, a member of the Tribune financial staff for 16 years, was born in Chicago, April 2, 1919, but was reared and educated in Jacksonville, where his father, the late Dr. Samuel N. Clark, was on the staff of Norbury Sanatorium.

News Reporter At 14

At 14, Clark began working during summer vacations and spare time as a reporter or filled in as telegraph or city editor of the Jacksonville Journal and Courier. Upon graduation from Illinois College in 1940 with an A.B. degree, he went to Chicago as a reporter for the City News Bureau, for which he covered police and court news.

Clark entered the army in April, 1941. Upon his release to inactive duty seven months later, he became a member of the Tribune's financial news staff. He was recalled to the army in June 1942, and served in the 43rd Infantry Division in the Pacific, taking part in the fighting in the Solomon Islands, New Guinea, and the Philippines.

Commissioned In Field

He rose from private to sergeant, was given a field commission as a lieutenant at Munda in the Solomon Islands campaign, and was awarded the bronze star with an oak leaf cluster. He was a captain at the time of his discharge.

Clark returned to the Tribune in November, 1945. He was made assistant financial editor early in 1952 and was appointed to his present post in 1956 to succeed Philip Hampton, who was named executive director of the Robert R. McCormick Charitable Trust and the Robert R. McCormick Foundation.

Clark also served for two years as moderator of "Ticker Tape," a weekly television program on WTTW, Chicago's educational TV outlet. He is a trustee of Illinois College, and a member of the Glenview, Ill., public school board of education (District 34).

In college, Clark was president of the glee and dramatic clubs, and a member of the swimming and tennis squads. He was graduated with an A-minus scholastic average.

Clark was married to Barbara Ormsbee February 13, 1941. They have three children, John J. and William W., and Thomas and reside in suburban Glenview.

Mt. Olive Edges Arthur For Music Sweepstakes Victory

"Mt. Olive has succeeded in edging out Arthur for the music contest sweepstakes," MacMurray professor Henry E. Busche stated Saturday afternoon as 70 central and southern Illinois high schools wound up the final stages of the state music contest here.

Strong in solos and ensembles, Arthur piled up an early lead Friday, 58 points to Mt. Olive's 44. But with Saturday's contests in band and chorus, the Mt. Olive superior depth in these areas came to the surface.

By early Saturday, Mt. Olive already had won two firsts in chorus while Arthur had no entry. A late surge placed Mt. Olive only one point behind Arthur, 79-78, with the former having more chorus entries later in the day while Arthur was through with music competition. Total points gave Mt. Olive a 106-78 triumph.

Rating superior bands were Virginia and Griggsville, while New Berlin had an excellent band and girls' chorus. Friday evening's sweepstakes scores had Rossville in third place, behind Arthur and Mt. Olive, with 42 points, while Virginia was tied with Moweaqua with 56 points. Other scores were: Rochester, 49; Raymond, 39; Mohammet, 55; St. Elmo, 25; Griggsville, 45; Bern, 43; Sandoval, 30; Auburn, 28; Athens, 27; Altamont, 22; New Athens, 24.

Columbia, 22; Assumption, 22; Villa Grove, 11; Pleasant Plains, 21; West Pike, 27; New Berlin, 21; Girard, 14; Martinsville, 9; Pilsch, 12; Teutopolis, 10; Franklin, 10; Chandlerville, 3; Greenfield, 7; and Waverly, 10.

Chicago Livestock Market Report

CHICAGO (AP) — A seasonal increase in shipper demand along with volume buying by local packers steadied the butcher hog market this week although offerings both at Chicago and 12 major markets were the largest since February.

Supplies shipped for slaughter elsewhere were the heaviest since January.

Although prices fluctuated narrowly throughout the week, they finished 25 cents a hundredweight higher for barrows, gilts and sows. The $17.25 top was the highest since the end of March.

The cattle run was about 20 per cent larger than for the previous week—the percentage of choice grade somewhat larger and the prime grade smaller.

Prices of slaughter steers eased after climbing as much as $1 higher at one time. At the end of the week they were steady to 50 cents lower with most of the decline on high good and prime grades.

Slaughter lamb prices were steady to 25 cents higher despite salable offerings about 15 per cent greater than last week's run. However, supplies on the 12 major markets were about 5 per cent less.

The Chicago supply was about 35 per cent slaughter lambs, mostly woolled. Ewes sold at prices 50 cents to $1 higher for the week.

New York Stock Market

By ED MORSE
AP Business News Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market raced to record highs this week under the inspiration of American Telephone. It was the market's biggest upsurge in about two months.

Spurred by stockholder ratification of its 3-for-1 stock split, AT&T traded at new highs since 1929 and closed the week at 26 3/4 for a net gain of 15 1/4.

Interest was tremendous in AT&T's "when - issued" stock because of the split. This closed the week at 88 1/2, a premium over present stock. Although it was traded only two days, the issue was the most active of the week.

The rise of "telephone" was the most prominent feature of a swift recovery by high quality stocks on a broad front. The Wall Street honeyman of over-speculation in cheap stocks faded into the shadows.

The performance was a dramatic reversal of the previous week's action when the market declined, acting like a boy sulking in the corner because of repeated scoldings. This week the boy emerged from the corner, ran out to the ball field and hit a home run.

Volume expanded to 17,626,640 shares from 15,625,110 the week before. Prices were on the upside every day of the week.

The strong advance followed a month of consolidation from the previous record high. During this uncertain period stocks moved over a narrow range, "testing" both the "ceiling" and the "floor" but never going through. Which way the penetration would be was anybody's guess.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose $3.10 in historic peak of $227.50. The rise matched that of the week ended Feb. 21 (the week the Dow Industrials pierced the 600 level) and was exceeded in 1929 only by the week ended Jan. 3. That was the New Year week, half of it in 1928.

The Dow Jones industrial average by week's end stood at a new pinnacle of 624.06. Price levels declined this week in both the corporate and U. S. government bond markets as money got a little tighter. Interest costs edged higher and the stock market surged to a record new high.

Investment quality corporates and utilities declined to new 1959 lows on the AP bond index. Rails and foreign bonds also slipped back. Only industrials, spurred by some acrobatic performances by convertibles, managed an advance. Volume increased to $32,342,500 par value on the New York Stock Exchange from $31,224,000 last week and $30,398,100 for the corresponding week in 1958.

GRAINS LOSE AFTER HITTING HIGHSE EARLY IN WEEK

By GIL MAYO
AP Business News Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — After hitting new high prices for the season in several spots last Monday, the grain futures market went into a fairly general decline the remainder of the week.

May wheat galloped far out in the retreat just as it often had in the long steady advance over a period of about three weeks. Its decline since last Monday's high amounted to about nine cents a bushel; the Friday close at more than seven cents down from a week ago.

Only the new crop corn and old crop soybean contracts pulled out even or ahead for the week. Except for May wheat, rye and oats were the biggest losers on declines running to about three cents.

On volume, trade for the week was the heaviest in many months as selling pressure time after time popped open large amounts of stop-loss liquidation in all pits.

Selling for the most part was linked to a rather general opinion that the market had become overbought during the rise and that a moderate reaction was due, at least, in several contracts.

At the end of the week, wheat was 7 1/2 cents a bushel lower, May 2 3/4; corn 3/4 lower to 1 1/4 higher; May $1.25 3/4; oats 5-3 cents lower, May 66 1/2; rye 1 1/4-3/4 lower, May $1.40 1/4; soybeans 1 1/4 higher to 2 cents lower, May $2.27 1/4.

URGES STATE MEAT INSPECTION LAWS

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—State Agriculture Director Sillman Stanard, urging enactment of new state meat inspection laws, said Saturday the department has had reports of disease-ridden animals being processed for consumption.

"It may come as a shock to many Illinoisans," he said, "that meat from diseased animals could find its way onto their dining tables, but our records show that it has been done. Prosecution has followed in instances coming to our attention."

Stanard said more than 650 meat and poultry slaughter plants are operating in Illinois without benefit of animal inspection either before or after slaughter. He recommended passage of a bill now pending in the Illinois House which sets up inspection of animals by a veterinarian and inspection of meat products during and after processing. The new law would take effect July 1, 1959.

At the present time, Stanard said, the only meat inspection being carried out is by the U.S. Department of Agriculture. It affects only plants engaged in interstate shipment of meat. Shipments solely within the state do not come under these regulations.

He added that in recent years there has been an increase in the number of locker plants and small processing industries serving individual communities, the result of a trend toward decentralization in the industry.

Reverse Play For Ellis Island?

We Need A Training Center For Exported Americans

By WARD CANNEL
NEA Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK—(NEA)—Take two examples.

An American manufacturer in Argentina, arriving without knowledge of union practices, has botched things so badly that his plant will probably never run at better than half-capacity.

An American executive assigned to supervise his firm's business outside of Paris will live in nothing less than a 40-room chateau—while his company must buy, re-amp and rent to him at Ashtabula, Ohio, prices if it wants him to stay on the payroll.

Multiply this throughout American industry abroad—$28 billion worth—and you will find that 30 per cent of U.S. executives assigned overseas are outright failures and must be brought home almost immediately.

The waste in money: $60 million per year—because it takes more than $35,000 to maintain a U.S. executive and his family overseas.

The reason: new setting, new ways, new language, new people; in short "culture shock."

Now, there is no sense in going into why so many American businessmen find culture so shocking. What really matters is that somebody has a plan to fight the problem.

His name is William Brennan. He is a young management consultant. And in the past year he has mustered a highly imposing army of university people, senators, heavy investors abroad and philanthropists who agree with him and his plan.

"We need," Brennan said, "an international cultural institute. A place where an executive or government employee or student going overseas can get intensive cultural training—language, customs, everything—so he can establish himself and his family and start out prepared."

ELLIS ISLAND: A place to eliminate culture shock?

Today, no such place exists under one roof. And the nearly 30,000 U.S. businessmen living abroad have had to pick up acclimation where they could. But under Brennan's plan:

● Highly trained academic facilities would saturate students with the cultural and language climate they need.

● Campus and quarters would be staffed by foreign people. An executive student would have to talk to the chambermaid in her language.

● Wives and children would be taught, too. An unhappy family in a new place can put tremendous pressure on an executive to get him home.

The Brennan plan requires 50 students to keep the institute paying its way. The U.S. sends about 15,000 people abroad each year to fill business, industry, school and government jobs.

For the site, Brennan has surveyed Ellis Island, which from 1890 to 1954 was one of the major U.S. immigration reception centers and is now up for sale.

But with a wife, three children and a mortgage on his new home, Brennan is understandably a little short just now—so he could enter only a $10 bid on the property.

Even at $20, it would be a steal. Ellis Island covers 27 acres of choice New York harbor with 60 buildings including a power plant, hospital, ferry slip, restaurants, theater, etc.

"But I think I can get it for $1," Brennan said, "if I can get it at all. This is a non-profit organization that will benefit the whole country."

Aside from the $6,000,000 it will take to get the plan into operation, Brennan faces only two obstacles. They are executives' wives who may object to their husbands and chambermaids talking the same language; and other bidders for the island — an amusement park operator and extra-high-rent apartment builders for only the best kind of people.

If Brennan loses out, he will not be the first to see culture defeated by bread and circuses.

Luckily, however, he does not have to bid against any historical preservation societies as it is still unfashionable to be descended from people who came into this country through Ellis Island.

A few systems work, say the rodent control boys, but even these are not infallible. One is cyanide bombs and the other is small box traps — baited with vegetables, cheese or maybe a pizza pie.

Gertrude Wetzel, Former Morgan County Nurse, Dies

Miss Gertrude L. Wetzel, Associate Director of the Illinois State Nurses Association, passed away Thursday evening at St. Luke's Hospital in Chicago. A prominent figure in the field of nursing, Miss Wetzel was formerly director of hospital construction for the Territorial Department of Health in Juneau, Alaska, and superintendent of the Wichita Falls (Texas) General Hospital.

During the many years which Miss Wetzel devoted to her career as a nurse she served with the Morgan County Health Department from 1929 to 1933 and also was active in the administrative department for relocation camps during World War Two.

Miss Wetzel was a native of Easton, Ill., and was the daughter of the late Rev. and Mrs. George T. Wetzel. She was born Sept. 1, 1901. She moved to Jacksonville as a young child and attended local schools, graduating from Jacksonville High School. She then went on to take her nurses training from Decatur-Macon County Hospital where she received her degree. She took her degree in Hospital Administration from Columbia University.

She was a member of Wilber Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star in this city. She was preceded in death by a sister, Naomi Wetzel, in August 1956.

Surviving are the following brothers and sisters: Mrs. F. A. Ross, Mrs. Harold Hunter, Mrs. Esther M. Wetzel, all of Jacksonville; George H. Wetzel, Bloomington and Theodore Wetzel, Lake Bluff, Ill.

The body was brought to the Cody and Son Memorial Home in this city.

Funeral services will be held at the memorial home at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon. The Rev. Landolt will officiate. Burial will be in Diamond Grove Cemetery.

The program for the evening will be a tape recording on which a conversation takes place between Jacksonville's senior citizens, John Buckley and Harry Adkins. Both men were employed at the C.P. and St. L. shops that were maintained here for many years and furnished employment to many Jacksonville men for a long period of time.

In this recording they recall many of the activities of the time and some of the people who were active in community affairs of nearly half a century ago. The two men are still living here and have called to mind actual happenings of an earlier day in which they participated.

Each year the society sponsors an essay contest among the students of English classes in the schools of Morgan county. At the meeting Friday the winning essays will be announced and the prizes will be presented to the successful writers.

Reservations for the dinner may be made by calling Miss Ruth Bailey, secretary of the society at CHestnut 3-2923.

TWO RINGLEADERS OF PRISON RIOT DIE

prison's northwest tower. Three other convicts, sidekicks of Myles and Smart, were holed up in the tower.

When guardsmen ordered them to surrender, the trio emerged with their hands raised. There was no response when the troops demanded that Myles and Smart also surrender. They fired a bazooka shot at the tower. The silence from within continued.

The guardsmen surged into the small 6 by 6-foot tower and found the bodies crumpled in the smoking ruins. Myles and an unidentified inmate were digging a tunnel under a wall when the first bazooka fire signaled the approach of the onrushing guardsmen.

Among the hostages were five convicts labeled "stool pigeons" by the die-hard riot leaders. The rest were guards.

The prison chaplain, Father Gerald J. Lyman, asserted that "no more than 15 or so of the inmates were leaders or sympathetically inclined to the revolt," which claimed the life of Dev. Warden Theodore Rothe, 40, at the very start.

Newsman interviewed some of the prisoners in an effort to pinpoint the reason for the uprising. Spokesmen for the inmates said they wanted reform of parole, the firing of Parole Director Benjamin W. Wright, better hospital facilities, elimination of the disciplinary "hole" cell, and other changes.

The prisoners mentioned crowded conditions, the use of buckets for toilet facilities, and the lack of segregation of young first offenders. There were other complaints but each of the seven interviewed tagged the parole system as the No. 1 grievance.

Wright, the parole director, resigned Friday night while the riot was at a momentary stalemate. His dismissal was demanded by the Legislature last month.

The guardsmen's invasion of the 90-year-old prison came in the midst of comparative calm. Carrying out plans organized Thursday night, the troops moved quickly and quietly to the prison and eventually to an area facing Cell-house 1.

After the first bazooka boom shattered the stillness, the guardsmen surged to the cellhouse entrance tower and ripped the lock from its big oak door with five rounds of M1 rifle fire.

They tossed mattresses over railings for protective barriers against rebel fire from two 30-30 caliber .500-caliber M1 rifles from the prison area into the steel gray dawn, beginning to sift into the dull skies overhead.

Finally, it was over. Peace and silence reigned again. The prisoners were all in their cells. Smoke continued to curl lightly from the northwest tower.

Warden Floyd E. Powell, himself held hostage during the first couple of hours, estimated the cost of the riot at nearly $105,000, including $100,000 it cost to call out the National Guard. Powell said cell repairs would take about $5,000.

There was a tinge of mystery surrounding the deaths of the pair who supposedly started it all — Myles and Smart.

National Guard officers termed their deaths double suicide with rifles. However, more were inclined to believe that Smart had turned a murder for the last time by killing Myles and then turning the gun on himself.

The warden said that when the two convicts were found dead in the tower, only one of two rifles had been fired. Prison Sociologist Walter Jones, who as a hostage served as go-between for the rebels and prison authorities, said Myles and Smart were homosexual mates.

Ralph J. Beck, Powell County coroner, said, "It appears Myles was shot by Smart and Smart then took his own life."

and persuasive advocate of his views at the conference table.

"The American people can be confident that the interests of this country will be vigorously and ably represented in any conference in which he participates."

Nixon explained he was at the banquet not to deliver a prepared speech but to participate in a question-and-answer session.

He said, however, he would like to comment on the Herter appointment and two of the topics discussed by Fidel Castro when the Cuban Prime Minister spoke to the ASNE Friday.

Among other things, Castro asked for economic cooperation from the United States and said Cuba will maintain a policy of nonintervention in the affairs of other Caribbean republics.

Nixon said, "I am sure that on his visit to the United States Dr. Castro will find that the American government and the American people share wholeheartedly the aspirations of the people of Latin America for peace with justice, for democratic freedoms, for economic progress, and for the strengthening of the institutions of representative government. During the year since I returned from Latin America, we have been making steady progress toward those goals."

"New avenues of economic cooperation are being opened. We cannot underestimate, however, the seriousness of the economic problems still faced by

Harry Grayson's SCOREBOARD

NEW YORK — (NEA) — The first big car race there definitely established the new and awesome Daytona International Speedway as the fastest in the world.

The two-and-a-half mile asphalt strip is too fast for its own good, as a matter of fact. Their first whirls around it sent the Indianapolis-type cars into the field of aerodynamics. The trouble is they fly, you see.

With two deaths and pulsequickness skids and wrecks in the first nine weeks, William G. France cancelled the second Offenhauser-powered race he had booked for the huge monster he conceived, financed and built just west of the Florida resort renowned for records established on the hard sand of its beach. Instead, on July 4, sedan and convertible stock cars will be back for a 250-mile grind on the sparkling layout.

Bill France suggested to Henry Banks, United States Auto Club director, that the Independence Day program be cut to 100 miles and moved to the considerably safer mile asphalt track in Raleigh, N. C.

At Daytona the other Saturday afternoon, Jim Rathmann, a 5-foot-11, 175-pound, prematurely balding 30-year-old Miami garage proprietor, won the swiftest automobile race ever run. After 100 miles he had established a new world competitive record on a closed course — 170.261 miles an hour. This exceeded his own mark, 166.722, hung up last June in the second Miglia di Monza over the highly-banked and famous Monza Speed Oval in Italy.

IN NEW YORK FOR A TIRE sales meeting while preparing for a 100-mile race in Trenton, N. J., Rathmann discussed the Daytona track which has even the superior jockeys wondering if it isn't too swift for the specially-built mounts of today.

"Like all winners, I have yet to find the first thing wrong with the Daytona track," said the wide-eyed and faced Rathmann, one leg hung over a stuffed chair in his New York hotel room. "But Bill France, an old driver, could be right. Maybe his track is ahead of the car builders. Perhaps they have been so busy streamlining about that none has looked underneath."

"Anyway, France decided to run extensive tests on the track before sending the big cars out again. He wisely figures that we ought to know what's happening to the cars."

"I was there when France told Jim Smith of the Indianapolis Times that Maj.-Gen. Arno H. Leuhman of the Air Force expressed the opinion that racing mechanics now would have to get into the field of aerodynamics."

RATHMANN ASSURES YOU that there positively is no margin for error at Daytona, especially with a wind blowing.

"Four stock cars may be able to round the banked curves at once," he said, "but if three cars like my new Simoniz Special hit one of them at once, it would be a miracle if all of them got around it."

"Passing the stands at Indianapolis, the wind will pick up a car and move it four or five feet. And Daytona is 35 miles an hour faster. There it takes two lanes to take care of a car traveling 195 miles an hour down the stretches and sliding and shifting 10 to 20 feet in a 20 or 30-mile wind. The turbulence behind another car is so great that weird things happen and throw machines out of control. Passing another car more or less lifts your machine off the track."

BILL FRANCE HAS the right slant. He wants owners to put their cars in a wind tunnel and study the effects at 200 miles an hour. "It's quite possible that the cars are traveling at such a tremendous speed the wind is causing them to lift and throwing them out of control," continued Rathmann.

"At Daytona, Jerry Unser, who crashed into the wall in a new Leader Card dirt track-type car, said: 'Going down the backstretch, just before the turn, the front end of the car suddenly seemed to get light and washed out. There just wasn't any control.'"

Jim Rathmann drives 18 races a year.

"It's like riding a roller coaster when you know how," he said.

Palmer Rescues 3rd Round Lead In Golf Classic

By MAX B. SKELTON
HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Arnold Palmer led a 4-stroke lead with 4 big bogies on the back nine Saturday but fashioned a beautiful chip shot onto the final green to rescue a third-round 71 and a 1-stroke lead over Freddie Haas in the $30,000 Houston Golf Classic.

Palmer and Haas had begun the round tied at 134 but Palmer, a 29-year-old pro from Ligonier, Pa., unhooked a 4-under 32 on the front nine to move ahead by 4 strokes.

Palmer lost his putting touch on the back nine, however, and had to settle for a 54-hole 205. Haas posted a par 72 for a 206.

Tied at 207 were Jay Hebert, Sanford, Fla., and Jack Burke Jr., a Houston native playing out of Klamath Lake, N.Y. Carey Middlecott, the only two-time winner here, took a bogey on the 18th green for a 208.

Palmer placed his 32-39-71 be-side earlier rounds of 66 and 68 for the 7,133-yard, par 72 Memorial Park course.

The third round field of 75 was cut to 61 pros and five amateurs for Sunday's final 18 holes. The cutoff point was 222—six over par. The only major victim was Ed (Porky) Oliver, the defending champion who won $4,300 in top money a year ago with a 72-hole 281.

Coming into the final green and needing a 71 to hold the lead, Palmer's second shot was long and the ball bounced over the rear of the green and down a small hill. Palmer chipped back and the tremendous gallery let out a roar when the ball stopped three feet from the cup.

Tied at 209 were Julius Boros, Mid Pines, N.C., and Bob Rosburg, Palo Alto, Calif.

Orioles Triumph Over Senators, 6-1

BALTIMORE (AP) — Baltimore Orioles, taking advantage of 2 Washington errors, broke open a tight game with 4 runs in the seventh inning Saturday and ran off with a 6-1 victory.

Gus Triandos' 3-run homer highlighted the inning and helped 20-year-old Jerry Walker salt away his first 1959 victory.

Walker, whose only other American League triumph was a 1-0, 10-inning verdict over the Senators in September, 1957, gave up 8 hits while walking 1 and striking out 2.

Chuck Stobbs, the veteran Washington lefty, suffered the loss.

Triandos' homer was 1 of only 2 hits which produced the 4 Baltimore runs in the seventh. With 2 out, Bobby Boyd and Willie Tasby reached base on errors by second baseman Reno Bertoia and third baseman Harmon Killebrew.

Bob Nieman drove home Boyd with a single and Gus mopped up with his round-tripper.

Yankees Trounce Red Sox, 16-7

BOSTON (AP) — Big Moose Skowron and Andy Carey each hammered across four New York runs Saturday as the world champion Yankees overwhelmed the Boston Red Sox 16-7, touched off by a decisive second inning.

Southpaw Ted Bowsfield was the victim of all six New York tallies in the second as he was driven out.

Euston Howard, who drove in 3 runs as did Mickey Mantle, got 2 of the 4 Yankee singles in the siege prolonged by 4 walks, an error and a passed ball.

Dave Sisler, who threw a strike past Skowron as the 11th New York batter to end the second frame, ran into his old nemesis—the home run ball. Hank Bauer, Skowron and Carey hit the drives before Sisler was replaced. Bauer's homer was the 150th of his major league career.

Jackie Jensen, the American League's Most Valuable Player in 1958, tagged winner Duke Maas for a two-run homer in the seventh. Maas coasted along on an 11-hit job until rookie Jim Coates came on in relief in the eighth. Jensen belted him for a second two-run homer in the ninth.

Big Ten Baseball Opens Next Friday

By JOE MOOSHIL Associated Press Sports Writer

The Big Ten baseball season opens Friday with Minnesota seeking its second straight championship and third in four years.

However, the Gophers will have to be plenty good if they hope to repeat. Every team in the league has new hopes and it doesn't take much more than a gifted sophomore or two to rally a team to a championship.

While baseball is still a game of runs, hits and errors—inherent weather could make a difference in the final standings.

Only two years ago, Northwestern won the title with a 5-2 record and the Big Ten plays a 15-game schedule. However, seldom do teams get to play all 15 games.

Illinois, Michigan State, Michigan and Purdue appear to be a few of the teams to watch. Minnesota has been a dominating power in the last four years rolling up a record of 38 victories and 15 losses in league play.

Illinois won 10 of its first 11 games and finished with a 5-1 mark in the Florida State Tournament. Coach Lee Ellbracht was worried about his pitching staff which will be headed by Terry Gellinger. Sophomores Paul Arneson, Ernie Kumerow and Dave Gantt have been impressive. Ellbracht also has veteran Jack Delveaux. Illinois expects to have one of the top defensive teams in the league.

Michigan State, finishing second to Minnesota, lost pitcher Ron Ferrarone who had a 5-0 mark. But the Spartans have their No. 2 hurler, Dick Radatz back.

Michigan will be playing its first season under Coach Don Lund, Jack Mogk, a .333 hitter in 1958, is the lone veteran outfielder but the Wolverines will have an experienced infield plus catcher Jim Dickey.

Purdue had a great southern trip in which the Boilermakers won all six games and had a team batting mark of .326. Shortstop Bernie Allen and outfielder Mike Ostrowski carried much of the batting load.

Indiana lost sluggers Bob Lawrence and Joe Cushing but again will have center fielder Don Foreman who was second only to Lawrence, last year's batting king. Catcher Norm Mackin is expected to supply a lot of punch.

Northwestern will have a veteran outfield which Coach Fred Lindstrom can platoon ala Casey Stengel but the Wildcats will be weak elsewhere. Catching should be no problem with Russ Schallert back and if sophomore Mike Stock can become the No. 1 receiver, Schallert will probably go to first base.

Coach Marty Karow strengthened his Ohio State outfield by shifting infielder Tom McManus to the garden. The Buckeyes have two fine pitchers in Carl Unger and Dale Denny.

Wisconsin will have difficulty in overcoming the loss of pitcher George Schmidt and outfielder Ron Nieman. Shortstop Bill Maljatt has been impressive. Ellbracht also has veteran Jack Delveaux. Illinois expects to have one of the top defensive teams in the league.

Phil's Bombard Cincinnati, 14-9

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Philadelphia Phils cut loose with a barrage of 15 hits Saturday that included a grand slam home run by Gene Freese for a free-hitting 14-9 victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

It was the third victory for the Phils over the Reds without a defeat in the still young National League season.

Reliever Al Schroll was the winning pitcher and Don Newcombe the loser for the second time against Philadelphia.

Bob Mabe was the only one of six Cincinnati pitchers who didn't take a beating from the Phils hitters. The Philly pitchers didn't fare too well either but Seth Morehead and then Al Schroll had the advantage of always being out in front after the second inning.

Suggs Maintains Narrow Margin In Dallas Open

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Louise Suggs played a steady 1-over-par 72 while Betsy Rawls floundered with a triple bogey in the stretch and the little veteran from Sea Island, Ga., took over the lead in the $10,000 Dallas Women's Open Saturday.

Miss Suggs had 215 for 54 holes and was one stroke ahead of the charging redhead from St. Clair, Mich.—Wiffi Smith—who shot the lowest score of the tournament to date, a fine 2-under-par 69.

Miss Smith, winner of the Dallas Open in 1957, had 216.

Miss Rawls, the year's big winner along the women's tour, from Spartanburg, S.C., took a 4-over-par on the second nine of Saturday's third round and fell to third at 218. She had a 4-over-par 75 for the day.

Miss Rawls came to grief on the 11th hole where she pushed her tee shot into a roadway, tried twice to get on the green only to have the ball roll back each time, and up play for 30 minutes for a ruling on whether she could tee up, and had a horrendous 3-over-par six on the hole.

In fourth place when the final 18 holes of the tournament are played Sunday will be Marlene Bauer Hage of Pittsburgh, who had a 73 Saturday for 229.

Patterson And His Manager Arrive At Site

By ROBERT D. LEWIS

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—The arrival of champion Floyd Patterson and his manager, Cus D'Amato, boosted the Patterson-Brian London heavyweight title fight nearer reality Saturday.

The fight definitely will be staged May 1 in the Indianapolis arena at D'Amato's press conference shortly after he and Patterson arrived here by train from New York.

The champion was somewhat silent in comparison to the voluble D'Amato.

"I can't say it's a warmup," said the champ when questioned about the coming fight.

"I don't know if I can beat him or not. This fight might prove tougher than the Johansson fight," Patterson is scheduled to meet Sweden's Ingemar Johansson in New York June 25. If he whips London, that is.

Meanwhile, London, former British heavyweight champion, was working out in Municipal Gardens. He arrived here Thursday with the warning that Patterson might be "in for a surprise."

Patterson will train and live at the Coliseum.

Training camps of both fighters will be open to the public beginning Sunday.

Blueboys Split With Carthage, 3-1, 16-4

Playing on a slippery, wet field, the Illinois College Blueboys split a double-header with Carthage College yesterday on the I.C. diamond. The Blueboys won the first game 3-1 behind the three hit pitching of Neal Hart, but in the nightcap the Blueboys' defense faltered and they went down to defeat by the score of 16-4.

In the first game Hart had allowed no hits going through the fourth inning, but the first man up in Carthage's half of the fifth beat out a bunt to ruin his bid for the no hit.

The Blueboys scored all three of their runs in the fourth inning off Naffziger, Carthage's starting pitcher. Jim Branca led the inning off with a single to left. Ed Puck then walked, and Chick Lamargis was hit by the pitcher. Freshman Phil Smith then, with the bases loaded, drove a double to left scoring Branca and Puck with Lamargis taking third. The pitcher, Hart, then struck out and Bob Volk attempted to bunt, rolled back with the base runners remaining stationary. Bob Hembrough then walked and stole second and Dick Hembrough grounded out to the pitcher. Then with two outs Lamargis scored from third on a passed ball.

The Carthage Red men scored their lone run in the top of the fifth. Aulwace was safe on a bunt, Ideus then struck out and Naffziger was hit by the pitcher. Aulwace took third on a wild pitch and later scored when Hart, attempting to pick him off the bag, threw wild to the third baseman.

The second game was marked by some very sloppy playing on the part of the Blueboys. Carthage banged out 14 hits off of three Blueboy pitchers for 16 runs. The Blueboys were able to collect only five hits off of Hendrikson, Carthage's starter.

Jayhawks Easily Dominate Their Annual Relays

LAWRENCE, Kans. (AP) — Big Bill Alley of Kansas continued his sensational javelin throwing with a toss of 254-9 as the host Jayhawks easily dominated their 34th annual relays Saturday.

Alley, a 217-pound junior from Short Hills, N. J., twice had broken the intercollegiate record this year and only two weeks ago spring and only two weeks ago to better the American record.

Bruce Parker of Texas, who set the KU meet record of 232-81 last year, finished third at 222-6 behind Buster Quist of New Mexico who had 228-1.

Kansas dominated the baton races by winning the four-mile relay, the sprint medley, the 440-yard relay and the 3-mile relay and had three individual champs. But the Jayhawks didn't gain all of the honors.

A pair of veteran campaigners from Houston University, John Macy and Jack Smyth, each came up with new records.

Smyth, a Canadian, won his third straight hop-step-jump at 50-1, bettering his own mark of 49-91 set a year ago.

Most sensational race of the day came in the 4-mile relay where 2 Kansas' Cliff Cushman broke the tape not more than a yard ahead of Colorado's Mike Peake for a 17:30.5 clocking.

Phil Mulkey became the first man in the history of the relays to win three decathlon titles. He did it with a total of 6,302 compared to Arkansas University's Terry Arenz, who compiled 5,914 points.

Sanford Tosses 1-Hit Ball In Giants' 8-1 Decision Over Cards

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — San Francisco right-hander Jack Sanford tossed a single of first-inning wildness Saturday and set the St. Louis Cardinals down 8-1 with a 1-hit pitching show.

Three walks and a hit batsman in the opening inning provided the Cardinal run and Stan Musial's single in a seventh-inning pinch hit role ruined a possible no-hitter. A double play erased Musial.

Sanford struck out four Cardinals and didn't issue a walk after his shaky first inning. He faced only 25 batters in the final eight innings. Except for shortstop Andre Rodgers' error and Musial's hit no Cardinal reached base after the first inning.

Rodgers homered in the sixth following one by Orlando Cepeda. The bludge came after San Francisco had built a 2-1 advantage at the expense of starter Lindy McDaniel.

Monk's Hood was second in the field of eight classy 3-year-olds and the favored Royal Orbit ran third by a head.

With veteran Johnny Longden aboard, Finnegan held his position on the outside to the second turn in the mile and one-eighth test, entered the stretch four lengths behind Royal Orbit and outlasted Monk's Hood.

Finnegan ran the distance in 1:49 1-5 on a fast track. He returned $4.60, $3.20 and $2.30.

$30,000 Sought By Administrator In Traffic Death

A wrongful death suit asking $30,000 damages was filed Friday in Sangamon county Circuit Court at Springfield by the administrator of the estate of a woman killed in an auto-truck collision April 21 of last year on the New Berlin-Waverly blacktop road.

The suit was filed by Ralph H. Williams in behalf of Marilyn L. Williams and named Donald Rhea Marr as defendant.

The suit charges that Marr was the driver of a truck which collided head-on with the auto in which the plaintiff was riding, driven by Henry E. Hull, some three and a half miles south of New Berlin.

Marr was accused of driving on the wrong side of the road and traveling at a high rate of speed when the accident occurred.

Although Routt was not entered in the sweepstakes because it did not compete in Saturday's band and chorus contests, the local school had two representatives in Friday's contests.

Carol Williamson received an "excellent" rating for her French horn solo of "Ave Maria," and Mary Kay Allen earned an "excellent" for her solo on the snare drum. Ratings are made according to superior, excellent, good, fair, and poor. Routt received two points for these entries.

Later Saturday, first and second place plaques were awarded to sweepstakes winners, by Henry E. Busche, Associate Professor of Music at MacMurray.

A total of 1100 students from Illinois high schools were at MacMurray for the contests, which also were held at Baptist church, Central Christian, Masonic Temple, Routt, Centenary and Grace Methodist.

"These two days have been a wonderful opportunity for the schools and their patrons to come and get acquainted with Jacksonville," Busche said. "We hope that their stay has been a pleasant one, and that they derived some benefit from the well-qualified judges for the contest."

BEVERLY ANN BRAY

Miss Jacksonville Title Awarded To Beverly Ann Bray

Miss Beverly Ann Bray, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Albert Bray, claimed undisputed possession of the "Miss Jacksonville" crown last night before an affectionate audience as they applauded the judges decision at the Jaycee sponsored 1959 Miss Jacksonville Pageant.

Miss Bray is an eighteen-year-old Jacksonville high school senior and has been very active in school affairs. She owed the audience with her presentation of modern dance in the talent portion of the program which won for her the coveted "Miss Congeniality" trophy, awarded by a vote of all eight contestants to the most congenial throughout the entire pageant and the long weeks of preparation.

Miss Jacksonville of 1959 will reign over community affairs during the coming year, both civic and social.

Sharon Hagwood, Miss Jacksonville of 1958, presented the crown to Miss Bray and Mayor Robert A. DuBois awarded the first place trophy.

First runnerup trophy went to Miss Lois Ann Osiek, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Cannon; and second runnerup trophy was awarded to Miss Carrie Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold F. Smith of South Bend, Ind.

The eight lovely contestants appeared in bathing suits as each was judged on poise, grace and physical charm.

The order of their appearance on the program, were: Miss Rebecca Sneed, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Sneed, Muskegon, Mich.; Miss Marsha Chenoweth, daughter of Mrs. Kenneth Chenoweth; Miss Janet Kay Delaney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Delaney, Mt. Sterling; Miss Navana Hope Eyre, daughter of Mrs. Navalee Eyre; and Miss Margaret Luster, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Luster of Alexander.

Fine Showmanship
This year's Pageant ran smoothly and swiftly with a fine exhibit of showmanship. A slight delay at the end of the program because of a tie between two of the top three was cause for careful consideration on the part of the judges and another ballot.

Jaycee general chairman Bill Chipman introduced master of ceremonies Willard Cody, who throughout the evening verified his established reputation as Dean of Jacksonville's Emcees.

The audience viewed the candidates in formal for their initial appearance with each escorted by a Jaycee. Lloyd Bieber, versatile pageant veteran, provided music during the evening at the electric organ and piano.

Most of this year's contestants chose to compete in musical talents, though the range of outstanding presentations included readings, dance and fashion design.

Judges based on all qualifications of the contestant who has intelligence, beauty, culture, personality, poise and talent.

Last night's judges were: Judge Loren E. Schnack, Quincy; Mrs. Jean Palumbo, Springfield; E. B. Patterson, Springfield; and Mrs. Dorothy Taylor, Beardstown.

According to standard ruling, three questions submitted by the judges were asked each of the finalists without the others having benefit of hearing the preceding

Second Look At Farm Problem Sights Some Hefty Urban Problems

By OVID A. MARTIN
Associated Press Farm Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Many persons besides farmers have a financial stake in agriculture's big production. That's one reason why it is so difficult to find a solution to farm surplus problems that'll win wide acceptance.

Because of this broad interest in agriculture, there are many forces and influences besides those of the farmer that affect drafting of various farm bills and debates over them.

It is widely agreed among farm leaders that the agricultural output is too large — thanks to recent great advances in agricultural technology. This fact is reflected in the accumulation of more than nine billion dollars worth of farm surpluses in the hands of the government under price support programs.

Some experts suggest that this be remedied by taking a fifth of the cropland out of production under a government land rental program. The land could be returned to production in the future should the need arise.

O.K. For Some
This might be a pretty good thing for most farmers. Most of them would get in rent just as much — if not more — than they would make if they grew crops.

But a lot of others wouldn't be as well off. How about the manufacturers and distributors of tractors, plows, cultivating and harvesting machinery who would lose on sales through such a contraction in agriculture? What about the workers they employ in city plants?

Applying Starter Fertilizer—High Precision Matter

If you apply 100 pounds of starter fertilizer to a field of corn where plant population is to be 16,000 per acre, your allowance per plant is only one-tenth of an ounce. When you are working with a tenth-of-an-ounce per plant, suppose the plant food elements are not combined evenly and properly.

Fertilizer Condition is Very Important

You can see how easy it would be to give some plants all nitrogen and no phosphorus and others all phosphorus and no nitrogen. Smith-Douglass solves that problem. Pellet-form fertilizer has the plant food perfectly balanced in each and every pellet.

BEEF CATTLE LEAD FARM PRICE PARADE

Cattle are marching in first place in the farm price parade. In March cattle prices stood at 100 per cent of parity—and without benefit of price support, production controls, marketing quotas, direct payments or export subsidies.

Nor was this high standing achieved by small marketings. Beef output in February and March was equal to that of the same months of 1958. And in 1958 there was enough beef to allow 80 pounds for every person in the United States. That was five pounds more than the 1949-58 10-year average. And that 10-year average is the largest on record.

Prices of cattle have stood up well under unusual competition from other meats. The February-March output of pork was up 22 per cent over 1958 figures, and the supply of broilers was probably up 10 to 15 per cent.

A boost in consumer incomes has helped to support the demand for beef. Personal income was flowing in February at a record rate of $365 billion a year—a billion dollars a day! That was five per cent more than one year before. And there was a further increase in March.

Recent prices for cattle have been relatively higher than prices of closely associated farm products. Compared with the 1949-58 10-year averages, cattle in March were 20 per cent higher than milk, 41 per cent higher than hogs and 59 per cent higher than corn.

Recent cattle prices have been about midway between the highest and lowest annual averages of the past 10 years. Highest yearly average price for steers at Chicago was $35.72 in 1951. Lowest was $22 in 1956. Steer prices at the end of March were $28.73.

At the same time the farm prices of corn averaged $1.66, $1.30 and $1.06. Consequently 100 pounds of steers were worth as much as 21.5 bushels of corn in 1951, and only 17.2 bushels in 1956. But 100 pounds of steers were worth as much as 27.1 bushels of corn at the end of last month.

Obviously prices of cattle and corn have strayed far from their normal relationship. Recent hog prices, too, have been high in relation to corn, but not so high as cattle. The hog-corn price ratio in March was 14.5 compared with a 10-year average of 13.1. Highest annual average in the past 10 years was 18.2 in 1956. Lowest average was 11.0 in 1952.

Cattle prices apparently have the most adjustment to make. Abundant feed supplies produced in 1957 and 1958 have been holding cattle on farms and ranches. The accumulation began in November 1957 and has been going on for over 17 months. Not all of the holding has been for breeding purposes. For example, the number of steers on farms Jan. 1 was up eight per cent from a year earlier, and up 12 per cent from two years before.

So far this year, fewer cattle have been slaughtered than in 1958. But by late summer or early fall, cattle slaughter may be running well over 1958 levels. Most ranch cow herds have been rebuilt, and sales of cows will probably increase moderately. The actual rate will depend somewhat on the weather.

LIVESTOCK FEEDERS MEET

Litzelman stressed his organization's program: "No government help wanted."

The new officers elected by the local group were William Gilmore of Roodhouse, president and Charles Drury, Alexander, vice president.

Thayer was reelected secretary-treasurer and John Reed of Jacksonville was chosen his assistant.

This Week.. at Dixon Springs

For several years the Dixon Springs Experiment Station has been cooperating in a beef cattle breeding project with several other agricultural colleges in the North Central region. Now we are participating in a cooperative regional sheep breeding project.

To get this project under way, sheep researcher Jack Lewis, went to Montana to select a flock of yearling Targhee ewes. These ewes have arrived on the Station and are now tasting some of the southern Illinois fescue.

Project Plan
We plan to maintain 150 purebred Suffolk ewes and 150 purebred Targhee ewes. One hundred from each flock will be bred to rams of the other breed so that we'll have approximately 100 crossbred lambs each year. This alone will permit evaluation of the advantages or the disadvantages of crossbreeding Suffolks and Targhees.

More Ambitious
As valuable as the crossbreeding information will be, the plan is much more ambitious. The program is designed to learn how different characteristics are inherited. For example, is the length of fleece highly inherited so that it may be bred for, or is it lowly inherited? The way in which characteristics are inherited is important. We must know before we can make progress by breeding selection. Another example: perhaps length of wool and carcass conformation are opposed to one another. This is only perhaps. Perhaps we can't select for both. Maybe if we select for one we will lose the other.

By Looks
How often we are disappointed in our breeding programs by selecting on appearance only. A beautiful animal, the type that seems ideal, may produce offspring that are far from the ideal. The new breeding program with sheep may uncover some physical measurement that we can use in selecting animals which will consistently produce offspring with one or several highly desirable characteristics.

People Involved
Such a breeding project calls for help from many University specialists. It calls for geneticists, statisticians, meat specialists, wool specialists and good managers of sheep. This is a widely cooperative project involving assistance from several University of Illinois departments. We expect great things from this study.

For The Worms?
Pelleted feeds for sheep and cattle have proved themselves in many feeding trials. But Bob Webb, station superintendent, felt that pellets had really arrived after he received a certain letter. This letter came from a worm hatchery in Texas. This hatchery has been experimenting with many feeds and bedding for earthworms and is now interested in securing pelleted hay for its worms. We cannot say or even estimate the potential consumption or market for hay pellets as worm feed, but we can say that now the acceptance of pellets is well-nigh universal.

—H. A. Cate.

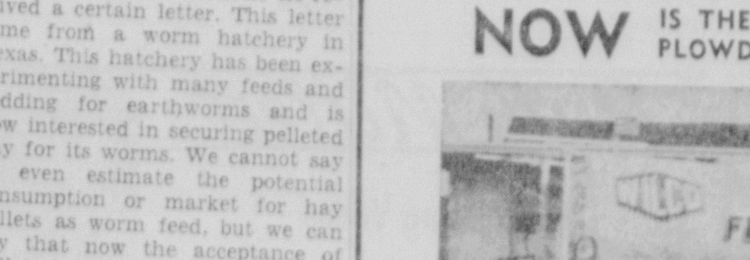

Hybrid vigor can improve production records of dairy cows, according to 10 years of crossbreeding research at the University of Illinois.

George Bernard Shaw received the Nobel Prize in 1925. At that time he said he wrote for the simple, everyday person; not for society in general.

Hawaii's civilian population is about equal to that of Seattle, Wash., spread out in an area equal to Connecticut and Rhode Island.

Soybeans do not return enough profit per acre to make field treatments of diseases practical. Therefore developing disease-resistant varieties is the most economical approach to controlling soybean diseases.

Corrective Highway Action Needed Now

How many more victims of poorly planned highway construction must there be before something is done to correct the danger traps on heavily traveled U.S. Highway 36-54 near Jacksonville?

How much more needless suffering from personal injuries as a result of accidents at these points will it take to prompt state authorities to build proper turn-offs?

Only last Wednesday another bad collision took place west of the city where the old Mound road joins the U.S. Route. This spot is particularly hazardous. Drivers approaching from the west, desiring to turn left to come into the city, are placed in a perilous position.

Other communities in the area have been provided with proper turn-off safeguards on this same highway. The turn-off at Winchester is a good example of what can be done to protect the public.

Why aren't the people of Jacksonville entitled to the same consideration?

As most motorists know there are also several danger spots on 36-54 east of Jacksonville, especially near the old subway east of Arnold station. Numerous accidents and several fatalities have occurred there.

It is high time that something is done to relieve these hazardous situations and to prevent further loss of life.

How much longer will the State Highway Department impose these tragic errors of highway construction upon the people of this vicinity and upon other innocent travelers on one of the most important routes in the Nation?

John Foster Dulles

No one in the Western world who heard the tragic news that Secretary of State Dulles' cancer had spread to his neck had any doubt that a sad realism would compel President Eisenhower to accept his resignation.

There can be no question that John Foster Dulles has been the President's most trusted assistant, his stout staff in the perplexing realm of foreign affairs, and perhaps his closest friend in government.

The country can understand the tears in his eyes when he made his reluctant announcement.

Nor is there any question that the nation, like Mr. Eisenhower, widely appreciates not only the secretary's immense personal bravery but the tireless, dedicated attention he gave his diplomatic duties in one of the free world's most crucial times.

It is well and fitting that the President should declare that Dulles will continue to serve the United States as a top-level consultant. No American anxious for genuine and fruitful solutions of world problems could wish anything but that he will be able to contribute his vast experience and diplomatic wisdom to the big East-

West conferences just ahead.

We must realize, however, that even this represents more hope than promise at this stage. Dulles is a very sick man. His great dream of somehow getting to the Foreign Ministers' meeting at Geneva next month would seem now to be a dim prospect.

Certainly the doctors will do everything in their power to arrest if they cannot cure the cancer from which he is suffering. But anyone who saw his condition when he returned by plane from Florida to Washington cannot imagine their task will be easy.

The President now faces the task of selecting a new secretary. Chances are said to favor Undersecretary Christian Herter, but Mr. Eisenhower says the way is still open to other possibilities.

Whatever the choice shall be, the new man should be swiftly clothed with the fullest possible authority. And to the degree that he cannot, in the time just ahead, match either the prestige or the stature of the now-retired John Foster Dulles, then the President himself has an evident duty to throw his full weight and energies into the vital diplomatic pursuits we are about to undertake.

ELEPHANT BOUNCES BOY

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — Eight-year-old John Foster took a free ride on an elephant Thursday at the Florissant Meadows shopping district. When he got off, the animal grabbed him and bounced him on the pavement several times.

Elephant trainer Willard G. Bitting struck the animal with a hook and the elephant promptly released John from his trunk. "I was plenty scared," commented John, who was unhurt.

KHRUSHCHEV HAS BIRTHDAY

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev was 63 today, but there were no signs of any public celebrations.

The 50th, 60th and 70th birthdays of Soviet dignitaries are usually commemorated with newspaper editorials and other honors. The mid-decade anniversaries usually go unmentioned.

First state legislature of Arkansas assembled Sept. 12, 1836.

COUPLE OF AUSSIE MISSES—From Australia to the United States come two beauty queens. Evelyn Platt, left, is "Miss New Australia of 1959." The 22-year-old fashion model measures 35-25-35. Arlene Andrewatha, 19, right, is none other than "Miss Late Show." She's the reigning queen for Australia's late-TV-movie addicts. She's from Melbourne, Victoria.

Well, What Offspring Could We Expect!

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—During his visit to Washington for the NATO 10th anniversary ceremonies, Gen. Lauris Norstad, Supreme Commander of Allied Forces in Europe, was asked what he thought about Kremlin boss Nikita Khrushchev's taking up golf.

"At his age," said General Norstad, "it would be an additional handicap. It would not improve his disposition. My experience has been that after a hard day in which all the world's troubles seem to descend on you, nothing adds to your irritation like swinging at a golf ball and missing."

General Norstad also showed his ability as a diplomat when he was asked what he thought about British Field Marshal Montgomery's reported trip to Russia.

With a twinkle in his eye and a masterful understatement, he replied: "I would hope his great gift for simple, straightforward speech would enable him to make clear the exact position of Viscount Montgomery to the Russian government."

The District of Columbia Democratic Club is prospering again after some lean years. When the Truman administration left town, a lot of its bureaucrats who lived in Washington tried to keep in touch through a luncheon club that met in a private dining room at the Hamilton Hotel. But it never was very popular.

Six months ago the club took over an old dine and dance night spot at the Sheraton-Carlton and made it into a luncheon and dinner club. It's going great guns. Charles V. Murphy, who was President Truman's counsel, was president last year. This year it's Henry H. Joe Fowler, who was Director of Defense Mobilization in 1952-53.

Although French Military Attache Lt. Col. Henri du Laffay is one of Washington's most personable diplomats, he has the reputation of throwing the town's quietest dinner parties. Reason is that his wife's cooking is so good that guests usually concentrate entirely on eating. The couple's most silent dinner so far was the one they threw for embassy diplomats and visiting NATO officials.

A Glance Into The Past

10 YEARS AGO
Mayor Ernest L. Hoagland was elected to a third term as mayor of Jacksonville, defeating Dr. John S. Wright, Democrat, by 855 votes. Aldermen elected were J. J. Flynn, Kenneth Woods and Byron E. Brune, Democrats, and Crit Hane, Republican.

Daylight time was defeated by 581 votes.

William Hills of Franklin died. He was born at Lynnville 89 years ago.

20 YEARS AGO
Four aldermen were elected Tuesday. They were T. C. Chumley, Democrat; Frank Baker, Lloyd Reid and Ernest L. Hoagland, Republican. A new tax to pay increased salaries to firemen carried by 1,304 votes.

Funerals were held in Mercedia Monday.

50 YEARS AGO
The Beardstown Riverites lucked through yesterday's game to beat the Lunatics 4-2.

It is understood that Gov. Deneen has been asked to appoint a young lady from Bath, Mason Co., Ill., to attend a centennial celebration at Bath, England, with all expenses paid.

It doesn't look very much different from other saddles, but Hon. Andrew Russell paid $75 for one yesterday and it may be worth the money.

75 YEARS AGO
It is about time preparations were begun for Decoration Day. Some live man should buy the tile factory in Chapin and start it running. He would do well.

Squire Ed R. Henry, after a residence of more than 40 years in this vale of Suckerdorn, shook the Woodson clay from his feet Tuesday with a ship's crew of two mules. He steered his bark for Wichita, Kans.

Rep. Sidney R. Yates (D-Ill.) tells the story about a man who talked a big league baseball manager into hiring a horse.

The animal was expert in catching fly balls with his mouth. And when it came to swinging a bat clamped between his teeth, the horse showed possibilities of becoming the season's home run king.

The bases were loaded when the horse came to bat in the opening game. He smashed the first pitch to left center field but made no move toward first base. "Why doesn't he run?" the manager yelled to the horse's owner.

"That's his trouble," the owner replied. "He can't run. If he could, he'd be at Arlington Park."

When a friend asked Project Mercury astronaut Lt. Col. John H. Glenn why he volunteered to be one of the first humans to soar into outer space, he cracked:

"It's the nearest to heaven I'll ever get, and I want to make the most of it."

In an effort to boost coffee addiction, promoters tossed an exotic-type coffee break on Capitol Hill for representatives, senators and Latin-American diplomats. On hand to do the pouring was Brazilian Coffee Queen Denise Prado, a 20-year-old blonde beauty who speaks five languages. As a plug for the only state that produces coffee, she introduced a concoction called "Coffee Hawaii." It's a mixture of iced coffee, pineapple juice and coffee ice cream.

Rep. Sidney R. Yates (D-Ill.) tells the story about a man who talked a big league baseball manager into hiring a horse.

The animal was expert in catching fly balls with his mouth. And when it came to swinging a bat clamped between his teeth, the horse showed possibilities of becoming the season's home run king.

The bases were loaded when the horse came to bat in the opening game. He smashed the first pitch to left center field but made no move toward first base. "Why doesn't he run?" the manager yelled to the horse's owner.

"That's his trouble," the owner replied. "He can't run. If he could, he'd be at Arlington Park."

When a friend asked Project Mercury astronaut Lt. Col. John H. Glenn why he volunteered to be one of the first humans to soar into outer space, he cracked:

"It's the nearest to heaven I'll ever get, and I want to make the most of it."

The World Today

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press News Analyst

Some striking parallels between the two careers and personalities might well make one wonder: Is Fidel Castro a sort of Nasser of the Antilles?

The question is likely to occur to many who have the opportunity to see and hear the Cuban revolutionary leader on his current visit to the United States.

To suggest this casts no aspersion on the man who toppled an entrenched Latin American dictatorship against almost impossible odds. Egypt's Gamal Abdel Nasser, like Castro, is, to say the least, a remarkable man.

The following is true both of Cuba and Egypt: Before the revolution, the country was in the grip of a corrupt and often brutal regime. The revolution's victory was welcomed by a great preponderance of the thinking people in the Western world. It was considered a hopeful development, a chance that the lowly citizens so long abused and neglected at last could look forward to a decent break.

Like Nasser's, Castro's postrevolution approach to his monumental problems sometimes has seemed more emotional than practical. Indeed, even in his mannerisms, his gestures, his way of rolling his eyes heavenward, his eloquence and his personal charm, Castro inevitably reminds one strongly of Nasser.

Even Castro's stoutest supporters in the United States will admit he has a Nasser-like inclination to put if the slightest doubt is cast upon his pronouncements or intentions.

Like Nasser, Castro came to power as a young man—very young for the job of coping with the vast complexities inherited from the corrupt old regime. As in Nasser's case, there is a suggestion of political immaturity in Castro's approach.

Castro even has sounded like Nasser when he spoke loudly of neutrality in world affairs and of the "United States imperialists" whom he accused of profiting in his country at the expense of the population. Like Nasser, Castro even has hinted that if the United States annoys him sufficiently, he knows where to turn.

Nasser was not satisfied to develop his own revolution. He diverted and halted its more hopeful programs for the sake of interfering in the affairs of other Arab countries. He seemed to picture himself the liberator of a great area, much of which did not particularly want to be liberated.

It is to be hoped Castro will want to develop his own revolution. It has a great deal of promise. It may be interrupted, perhaps set back many years if he chooses to encourage Cuban adventuring in the Caribbean and elsewhere in Latin America for the purpose of "liberating" areas which may not long for his own particular brand of liberation.

The Cuban situation is vastly unlike the Egyptian in this respect: Cuba, alongside of Egypt, is a fabulously rich land. If Castro's attempt at a social revolution should go the way of Nasser's, Castro will have far less excuse than Nasser had.

Every American Jewish family will welcome matzos from the Holy Land for their celebration of the Passover holidays.

The matzos are made in Bnei Barak, Israel, by a firm seven generations old. They are exported to the United States for the Passover season for distribution in supermarkets, chain and independent stores throughout the country. Orthodox kosher, they come wrapped both in 15-ounce and 24-pound packages.

From orthodox Jewish sources, we received this "hands across the sea" recipe to enhance the Passover dessert:

Aviv Picrust

No. 1
Soak 2 matzos and press dry; heat 1 tablespoon fat and add the soaked matzos. When dry, add 1 cup matzo meal, 2 eggs, 2 tablespoons sugar and 1 teaspoon salt. Mix well and press into pie plate with hands. Have dough 1-inch thick. Fill with any desired fruit filling and bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 30 to 40 minutes.

No. 2
Two matzos, 1 cup shortening, yolks of 2 hard-cooked eggs, 1 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 raw eggs, grated rind of 1 lemon, 1 teaspoon nutmeg, 14 cups matzo meal.

No one knows why Michigan's popular name is "The Wolverine State." Some people believe that early settlers found many of the animals called wolverines. However, experts have been unable to find any trace of them. Michigan's first explorers did find other great natural treasures, though. One of the most valuable of these was fur—beaver, mink, fox, bear and muskrat.

Employees Discover It's Fun
To Return to 'Alma Mater'

By MARIE DAERR

At 8:30 a.m., one day a month, some 70 silver-haired men start picking up their bator in the lobby of Cleveland Twist Drill Co.

Among these warmly welcomed visitors are retired office workers, sweepers, department managers—many of them with 40 and 50-year service records.

They are members of the company's "ROTC," Retired Old Timers Club, a 10-year-old group that has proved so successful, the company plans to add a women's auxiliary.

L. K. Gordon, personnel manager for the company, and Melvin Hansen, manager of employee benefit policies, help plan an ROTC program that includes outings, speeches, films and even hobby sessions.

"The ROTC men spend the morning chatting with each other and with present employees," Gordon explained. "We are a family type concern, so many of them have younger relatives working here."

"Then it's time for lunch, on the house, in the company cafeteria. A business meeting follows. Mike Prantz, a retired foreman who worked for us more than 50 years, is ROTC president."

The afternoon program may include a talk on Social Security or hospitalization, a travel or fishing film, maybe a do-it-yourself project of making bird feeders or planters.

Last May, Twist Drill presented each ROTC member with a tuberosus begonia plant. In September, the ROTC men brought their plants to a meeting. A prize went to the man with the finest specimen.

In summer there are picnics and fishing expeditions and autumn drives to see the foliage. At Christmas members try their originality and skill at making miniature churches and other holiday ornaments. There are trips to public events, such as flower shows and circuses.

Only recently, the group welcomed a new member, Paul Beal, who retired in January from a management post with the firm. Beal was one of the organizers of the ROTC.

"We had 12 men when we started," said Beal. "Our turnouts now prove it's fun to come back to your alma mater."

WEEKLY BIBLE COMMENT

On Loving One's Neighbor

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

The Apostle John suggested that it is not easy to fulfill the two great Commandments, to love God and to love one's neighbor, when he asked (I John 4:20): "If a man love not his brother whom he hath seen, how can he love God whom he hath not seen?"

To love God with all the heart, soul, mind and strength is obviously not easy. It demands the full commitment and consecration of one's whole life. The more truly one believes in God as a Being of Love, the Father of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ, the higher is the soul's goal of attainment. Strongly emphasized is the plea of the same Apostle John: "Beloved, if God so loved us, we ought also to love one another" (I John 4:11).

If the Apostle seems to imply that to love one's neighbor who is near at hand is easier than to love the unseen God, I think his own emphasis upon what it means to love God might actually imply a possible reversal.

The man who has truly learned to love God is spiritually equipped to love his neighbor as no other man can be.

For the fact is: loving one's neighbor is not always an easy matter. It often calls for spiritual discipline, wisdom, and forbearance that only a man deeply concentrated to the Christian ideal and way of life is likely to possess. To love mankind in the abstract is a very different matter from love for the man next door, or on the next farm.

The New Testament is profound in its insistence upon right attitudes and motives, and Jesus put His supreme emphasis upon the Two Commandments of the Jewish Law. There is no conflict between Old and New Testaments regarding the true neighbor. But the Old Testament is a great textbook concerning good human relationships and the business of people getting on with one another. Think of some of its great teachings: "A soft answer turneth away wrath; but grievous words stir up anger"; "He that is slow to anger is better than the mighty"; "Let not the sun go down on your wrath"; and a multitude of similar good counsels.

"2.3 lbs. of Dixie per pound of gain"

GLEN S. KINDER, Oakridge, Mo. Says: "My feed conversion on the Dixie Program was only 2.3 lbs. of Dixie per pound of gain. I have switched away from Dixie Chick Starter twice now, but I continually find that Dixie does the best job of all, so I switch back to Dixie."

Facts you should know about

ELECTRIC HOUSE HEATING

Many of our customers, particularly those now building new houses, are considering the use of electricity for heating these homes. Although electricity has been used for supplementary heating in bathrooms, kitchens and other cold spots around the house, it is only recently that its use has been considered in this area for a complete house heating device.

We feel you should know that electric heating will cost more than heating with any other commonly used fuel. However, if your house is specifically designed and built for the use of electric heating, the additional heating cost may be less than you think—and well worth the difference.

Customers who use electricity for house heating will qualify for our large-use residential rate, and a portion of the electricity they use for heating will be billed at only 1¢ per kilowatt hour.

To many homeowners the luxury and the convenience of electric heating make it well worth the extra cost. We hope these facts will help you decide whether this premium type of heat is for you today, or some time in the future.

THE TWO BASIC TYPES OF SYSTEMS

1. Resistance Electric Heating

Resistance electric heating units may be installed in baseboard units, in wall panels, or embedded in floors or ceilings. They work on the principle of direct electrical heat, like a toaster or clothes dryer.

A resistance system is as completely clean and silent as an electric light. There are no moving parts, practically no maintenance. There is no fuel, no flames, no fumes, no soot or ashes. Thermostats in each room enable you to maintain accurate control of individual room temperatures. Not an inch of usable floor space is used for most resistance type systems. You don't even need a chimney.

2. The Electric Heat Pump for Year Around Air Conditioning

The remarkable Electric Heat Pump provides both winter heating and summer air conditioning in a single unit.

In winter the Heat Pump collects heat from outside air. (There is heat in air even at zero temperatures.) The air is raised to the desired temperature, filtered, then circulated gently throughout the home. In summer the cycle is reversed; heat inside the home is pumped out and replaced by cooled, dehumidified air. This is the same principle used in your refrigerator or your air conditioner.

The Heat Pump is fully automatic, fully electric, uses no fuel. Initial cost of a Heat Pump is comparable to the cost of a conventional heating unit, plus central air conditioning.

WHAT ABOUT THE COST OF ELECTRIC HEATING?

Operating cost will vary according to the size of the home, the size of the family and their living habits. However, if you are building a home properly insulated and designed for electric heating, the additional operating cost may be less than you think.

There are certain economies in electric heating which should be considered in any comparison with other systems.

- An electric heating system means lower household cleaning expense and lower maintenance costs than with most conventional heating systems.
- With a resistance system, upkeep costs are almost nothing. There is no chimney, no central unit that needs periodic checking and cleaning, no filters to replace, no pilot lights, no motors, no moving parts at all. In new construction, installation of resistance electric heating will generally cost less than other systems.
- While the Heat Pump does require ductwork, it needs no chimney, occupies little or no usable space. Overall cost of a Heat Pump installation in a new home is comparable to that of other types of heating equipment plus central air conditioning.

Any home to be heated electrically should have at least 6" of insulation in the ceiling, 4" in the outside walls and 2" under the floors. Double-pane windows should be used throughout.

Brave Little Rebel

By Loella Sloane Young

Synopsis: Emmy Lou, a little girl of days just after the Civil War, is just ready to start on a long trip that promises new sights and adventures.

CHAPTER 3: HERE COMES THE TRAIN

Emmy Lou cocked a questioning eye, as she stared at Mrs. Duncan. Her traveling companion was a large efficient looking woman, whom Emmy Lou was sure would stand for little nonsense.

This trip, so anxiously awaited by Emmy Lou, did not promise the same joy and adventure to Mrs. Duncan. Leaving the warm southland, with its easy ways, for the cold and desolate plains of a frontier town, and the care of an invalid sister, did not promise a very comfortable or easy life for Mrs. Duncan.

Emma Lou stood silently holding her doll and clutching her Grandmother's hand, sorry and a little afraid, now at this last minute, to exchange this kind old lady whom she knew for this stranger with her clipped words and brisk manner.

Sam, the coachman, had removed the little brown trunk from the carriage and was already boarding one of the cars of the train, chuffing and steaming in the station. All around her people were fondly kissing loved ones goodbye, while others, excited about the coming trip, were calling last minute instructions to friends and family.

"Toooooooo! Toooooooo!" called the warning whistle of the train. A negro man with a red cap came down the steps of the train, followed by the old coachman.

"Alllllllll A booooooo!" called the man in the red cap. Mrs. Duncan hurriedly took Emmy Lou's hand. "Come child," as she said goodbye to Grandmother and moved toward the waiting train. "We're going to be left if we don't hurry."

Hug For Dear Grandmother Emmy Lou snatched her hand away from the woman's grip, and with a startled cry, turned and fled back toward her beloved Grandmother, who caught her in her arms for a farewell hug.

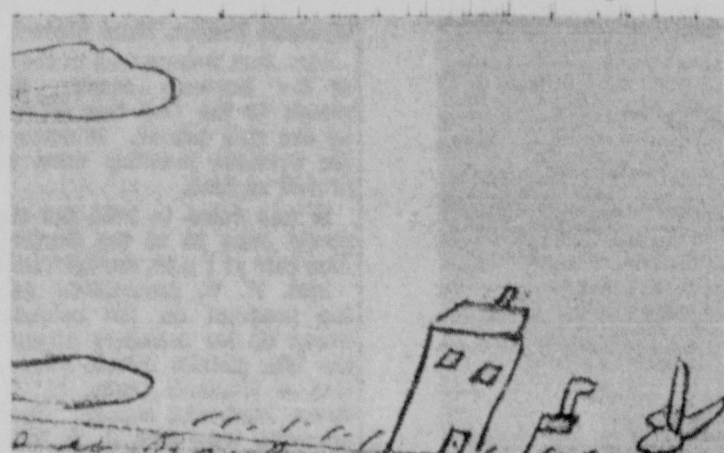

"Goodbye, Darling," her Grandmother smiled through her tears. "Write me a long newsy letter and tell your Mommy and Daddy hello for me."

Emmy Lou clung tightly to the old lady's neck. "Oh, Granny! I-I don't want to go with that woman," she sobbed. Gently but firmly, Grandmother removed Emmy Lou's arms from her neck, and pulled herself up straight saying, "Why, Darling, Mrs. Duncan is a lovely woman. We have all known her for many years."

"She is strange to you now, Dear, but I'm sure by the time you have gone only a short way, you will be very fond of her too. Remember, she is taking you along the first part of your journey to join your Mother and Father. You must be the brave little girl I think you are. Go now, child, and

What Do You Think?

By Jerry Lawless

Selfishness

Studies have shown that selfishness in man (i.e. the times when he acts to benefit himself) is inborn in him. It is an instinct.

The instincts make us get the things necessary for us to stay alive. Such things are food, warmth, and love are instincts and are all things which human beings seek.

I believe that instinctual things are sought with selfishness many times. Our Id, the compelling force in this, is only concerned that we do receive the things necessary for life—it is not concerned with how we get them. Therefore, in this sense, and at this stage we are selfish.

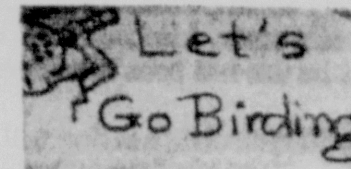

The Ego, or moral aspect of the conscience, makes sure that we receive the things mentioned above in a way that is moral and accepted by society.

However, the approved by the Ego, if the Ego has the final "say," is many times in a selfish manner. I know that I have obtained things selfishly many times, just as everyone has.

In conclusion, I believe that man obtains the things necessary for life many times in a selfish manner. He does this because he has to have those things.

The times when man can, and does act unselfishly, are times concerned with the non-essentials of life, if he is moral enough during these many times.

Are you sometimes selfish too?

Golden Eagle
By Emma Mae Leonhard

During the few years that the Journal Courier has given you our articles on birds, we have included several ones on our national bird, the Bald Eagle. Perhaps some of you think that the Golden Eagle has been overlooked by us, but really the Golden Eagle usually passes us by.

Whereas the Bald Eagle can be found in the wilder places throughout the United States, including even Merceda, Beardsdown, and the Chautauque Wild Life Refuge, the Golden Eagle is restricted almost entirely to the mountainous regions of the West.

You can now understand our great surprise when we found a Golden Eagle near the dam at Lake Jacksonville on March 7. As we were standing on the shore identifying the ducks which were swimming everywhere, a black spot high in the blue sky caught our eye. Perhaps it was a hawk, we thought, but what kind?

Soon it was dropping down and came near enough for us to be more curious. It looked somewhat like a large buteo, a Rough-legged Hawk for instance. And yet it looked different.

Soon we saw two white birds, Ring-billed Gulls, in pursuit of the great black bird. We had never seen such an attack upon the swift-flying hawk; we were puzzled at this dramatic picture in the bird world.

Soon the large bird came near enough for us to realize that it was larger than the largest hawk. It gave a very queer flip or twist to its wings, struck the water, and then sailed away.

It did not move too rapidly for us to look at it carefully through our binoculars. We were gazing at a Golden Eagle. We knew that it was very dark. It was very dark, its tail had white at its base and a contrasting dark terminal band. For the second time in the last two years we had seen an immature Golden Eagle in about the same place at Lake Jacksonville.

After Fish?

Each time it had plunged down to the water. Why? Perhaps it was after a live fish. For unlike the Bald Eagle, it feeds on only live meat, usually not fish at all.

Why were the two Gulls in pursuit of this second Golden Eagle? (There were no Gulls around when we had seen the first Eagle.) Had it stolen a fish from one of the Gulls?

We have heard of such predacity by the Bald Eagle. We don't know. All that we know is that a Golden Eagle had paid us a rare visit. It came quickly and unexpectedly. It also left quickly.

The last we saw of it was a dark form in the blue sky, and the white Gulls were still accompanying it, floating like tiny white clouds. Then they were gone.

MILITARY PRESIDENTS

Nineteen United States presidents were a military uniform at some time in their lives. How many can you name?

Their names are: Washington, Monroe, Jackson, Harrison, Taylor, Tyler, Pierce, Buchanan, Lincoln, Johnson, Grant, Hayes, Garfield, Arthur, Harrison, McKinley, Roosevelt (Teddy), and of course Eisenhower.

That's a hard one so if you got three you did very well and four would be excellent.

Illinois Senators

As you know, every state has two senators in the United States Senate, but do you know the names of Illinois senators?

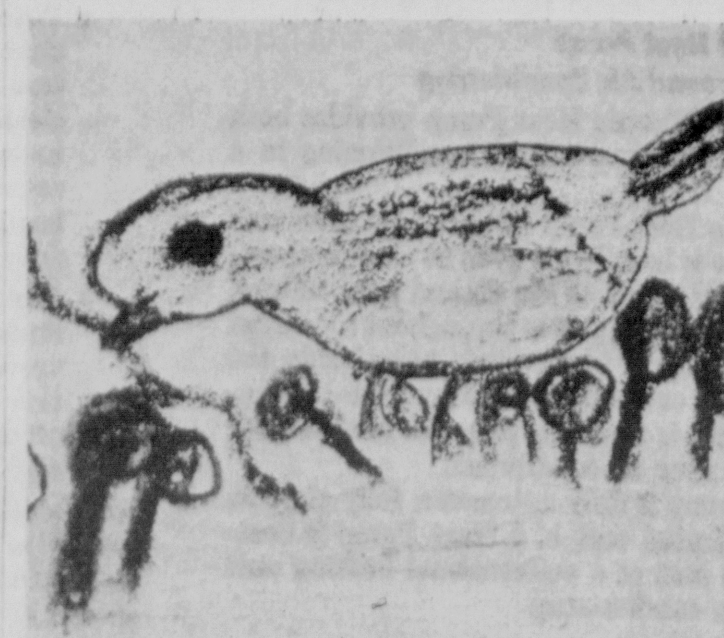

They are Everett M. Dirksen, Republican, from Pekin, and Paul H. Douglas, Democrat, from Chicago.

If you had a cow and several ducks, what would you have? I don't know what? Milk and quackers.

Flying Model Planes

By Joseph A. Smith

"U-Control" Trainers

By now you as our Junior Pilot should, by virtue of many successful models and substantial flying time, be considered a Senior or Advanced pilot. You may be casting longing and envious glances at gas driven flying models.

If you have priced the different gas engines available for flying models you know that they cost from $4.75 (Cub .049B kit) up to the Wasp-Twin .60 (34 H.P.) at $29.50. That isn't Hay!

Now comes flying. Mark off a 50 foot circle and you, Mr. Pilot, will stand with the "U-Control" handle at the center with the craft out the full length of the lines toward the outer fringes of the circle.

We shall fly in a counter-clockwise direction; have an aid hold the craft at eye level with its nose slightly up, back up a bit to straighten and tighten the lines, and again check controls. Pulling the top of the "U-Control" handle toward you should cause the elevator to rise and visa versa.

At a given signal, start turning around, hold Elevators in "Up" position; your aid should run in a counter-clockwise circle with nose of the craft slightly up (to prevent an accidental dive). At another signal from you he should release it as he comes around with the wind.

He may have to give it a very gentle toss; now as you, Mr. Pilot, continue turning around level the controls and elevators and practice level flights, take offs, and gentle into the wind landings.

By Walter B. Hendrickson Jr. On April 7, 1959, a group of Los Alamos Scientific Laboratory (LASL) scientists, headed by Dr. George Grover, announced that they had developed the first reactor that could convert atomic energy directly into electricity.

This type of reactor will be very useful for space travel, as well as on earth—perhaps even more so. It won't need the turbines and steam cooler that usual reactors and solar power plants use.

This will make the reactor almost as light weight as batteries which would produce the same amount of power, and of course the atomic power would last for a much longer time.

Solar power, atomic energy and batteries are the only sources of power that could be used in outer space. This is because all other sources of power, like gasoline engines for example, need air in order to run. Others, like rock wood, use either 3 tiny eyelets here or the small ends of 2 paper clips glued onto the wing around the hole so that the line will rub on it and not the wing where it passes through the wing. Now the lines go out to the "U-Control" handle.

Carefully adjust length of lines so that when handle is straight up and down the Bell-Crank's outer edge is parallel with the body of the slider, and the elevators are in a neutral position. Learn this Pre-Flight adjustment now. Failing to do this will almost always result in "Picking up the pieces!" Finally check to see that the controls are operating correctly and freely.

Now comes flying. Mark off a 50 foot circle and you, Mr. Pilot, will stand with the "U-Control" handle at the center with the craft out the full length of the lines toward the outer fringes of the circle.

We shall fly in a counter-clockwise direction; have an aid hold the craft at eye level with its nose slightly up, back up a bit to straighten and tighten the lines, and again check controls. Pulling the top of the "U-Control" handle toward you should cause the elevator to rise and visa versa.

etc. produce too much of a kick for a stationary power plant.

The LASL reactor, in this experiment, used a plasma thermocouple to produce the electricity. A thermocouple consists of two metals joined so that when one is heated and the other cooled an electric current is produced. In a plasma thermocouple a plasma (elementary material) is substituted for one of the metals.

In the LASL experiment a can about the size of a frozen fruit juice can was used with cesium gas inside as the plasma. A Uranium rod about 1" in diameter is suspended in the center of this gas.

When this device is lowered into the reactor, the heat of its radiation plus that of the Uranium rod cause the can to heat up while the reactor coolant keeps the Cesium cool. This produces enough current to power an electric light bulb.

With more and larger Plasma thermocouples and computers to turn the reactor's direct current into alternating current this device could provide enough power for a whole city.

The power from this thermocouple reactor could also be used to provide power for propelling the rocket ship by means of a Plasma Jet or an Ion Rocket. We'll tell you about the Plasma Jet next time.

How many animals can you find in a large field? You may be surprised. To be sure rabbits, squirrels, mice, and occasionally a skunk.

How do you find them? Well, look for mud or sand tracks along streams. Look for broken nuts and other signs of feeding around fruit-bearing shrubs or trees.

Look for bones, animal paths, animal homes and ground holes, beaver dams (in Wisconsin) etc. Deer have been seen north of Virginia, Ill., with deer tracks fairly evident in the Sagamon River Basin.

How To Track Wild Animals

By JOSEPH A. SMITH

To obtain fresh tracks, clear a six to eight foot in diameter area in the woods by removing all leaves and duff down to the soil and soften up the soil with a rake and water. Bait it placing nuts, peanut-butter, meat, sweet cookies etc. in the center.

Animals who come to feed will leave tracks in the wet loose dirt. Smaller animals such as squirrels, skunks, opossums, mice, and rabbits will come to this bait.

Another way is to build a two or three feet square tray out of plywood or boards and nail it to a pole three or four feet above the ground. Place cubes of bacon, some sprinkled flour, nuts, and peanut butter in the middle. Mice, squirrels, and flying squirrels will come to feed here.

To Attract Deer In the northern salt-lake will attract deer. If you want to see your visitors, feed them for several consecutive nights until they are used to it. Then, late some night, sneak up close but not too close with a powerful light. Suddenly shine the spotlight on them.

Everyone knows that if you will go out late at night with a strong light and shine it in trees, along a stream, in bushes, and in open fields all kinds of eyes will start back at you!

In such northern areas of the U.S. as Green Lake, Wis., you may easily find tracks of deer, opossum, raccoon, beaver, shrews, and skunk all in one large wooded area.

THE SKAT
By RIP BARNSDALL

Scientifically known as Scatophagus argus, this jovial aquarium fish comes from the East Indies originally.

This is one of the larger of the aquarium fishes, reaching a length of three to five inches in the aquarium.

It has a full, rounded body, thus giving added size to it. (Most fishes are long and tapered in the body—the Skat is more like a butterfly.)

Likes To Play The Skat is a friendly fish, and it enjoys playing about in the Aquarium. In order to be kept properly it needs live food.

One Skat can eat a large number of brine shrimp in one day. For this reason they aren't kept by many aquarists.

A good sized tank, at least twenty gallons in size, is also necessary for the Skat. A smaller aquarium hampers its movements, and consequently it isn't happy.

The body is a velvety brown. The males have orange edging the fins and running partly along the body from the top down to the middle. Black spots cover the body. The female is lacking in the orange coloration. Skats are egg-layers.

Some Sudanese women carry cartridge shells stuck in their lower lips. Hawaii voted more than two to one in favor of statehood as far back as 1940.

The World Of Tomorrow Is On The Way— Electronic Banking Is Coming To Jacksonville

The Farmers State Bank and Trust Company will be the first in this area to bring you Electronic Checking Account Bookkeeping.

We have placed our order for new Postronic Bookkeeping machines which will revolutionize bank bookkeeping — making it speedier, more accurate and more efficient. Because of the great demand for these machines, we don't expect delivery until mid-summer.

However, we are now taking the first step in our "Bank of Tomorrow" goal by assigning an Electronic Code Number to every checking account in preparation for our Electronic banking program. This is the most advanced bookkeeping service available today and we want you, our customers, to have the benefit of it.

FIRST STEP . . . Magnetism and Your Checking Account!

As all posting and bookkeeping will be done through the magic of magnetism and electronics, it is necessary that every checking account be identified by an electronic code number. Your own personal checking account, therefore, will be identified by a code number known only to you and the bank. Then through the wonders of electronics, only checks correctly identified by your electronic code number can be deducted from your account. The machine actually will reject any other number when your account is posted so you are protected against errors which become almost impossible to make.

WARRIOR BASIN

by LESLIE ERNENWEIN

THE STORY: Jim Furlong has burned an Empire line camp in retaliation for the burning of his cabin by Empire riders. Now he has had the rule been violated and that even the sheriff is out searching for Furlong.

Clee Veto, flanked by Farley Breen and Joe Fenton, were following fresh hoofprints south of Empire's horse camp when they heard shouting somewhere east of them. Veto halted instantly, listening to the final report and waiting a moment before he announced, "Off toward Long Ridge. Come on!"

Veto ignored the horse tracks they had been following. Those tracks hadn't made sense heading east as they were; nor had the dead horse, found near West Camp. A horse carrying Ike Rule's brand.

Coldly, sharply, as was his habit, Veto had commanded his men to a strategic pattern of encirclement with a calm order to shoot Furlong on sight. There had been no doubt in his mind, at first, as to who had burned West Camp, or that they would soon run him down. But with seven riders at his disposal, Veto hadn't accomplished anything all day except shoot a neater's horse.

Veto, as they approached Long Ridge, pulled his pony to a sliding stop. "Spread out," he commanded, "and watch for sign." Two more men caught up with him; he was directing them to circle southward when he saw a rider emerge from a mesquite thicket directly ahead of him. In that first instant, as Veto raised his rifle, he thought it was Furlong. His hope was that strong, that overwhelming. But Farley Breen had already recognized Brent Pardee, and called, "What you doin' so far from town?" Brent came on, his clean-shavadmitting an obvious thing, he added, "I haven't been on a horse since I left the ranch. I'll be gimped up tomorrow." Veto didn't seem to hear him. He sat there gazing at the distant ridge, waiting the last sunlight fade from his crest. As if thinking aloud, he said, "Furlong knew he was seen. So he rode west just far enough to get out of sight, scrambled up his tracks in the brush, and then went north."

"You think he can be found?" Brent asked. Veto nodded. "I'll go to the ranch and get fresh horses. Then I'll keep watch on Furlong's neighbors. He will put up with one of them tonight."

It was dark when Furlong found Rule. Ike said censoriously, "Took you a long time to get back. Where's the canteen?"

Furlong struck a match and found the canteen for him, observing that Rule's sweat-greased face was pale, his eyes feverishly bright. When Ike had finished with the water, Furlong thumbed another match to flame and examined his wound.

Furlong cut a sleeve from Rule's shirt, fashioned another pad and placed it against the wound. When he helped Rule to his feet the man couldn't stand alone. Ike, he decided, wouldn't make it to town.

"Furlong said, 'I'll have to leave you somewhere.' 'Where?'" Furlong thought about it. He disliked to leave Rule with Fern Lindstrom, but her place was nearest, and even that might be farther than Ike could stay as a guide. "Do you know Fern Lindstrom?"

"By sight is all."

"That's where you're going," Furlong said.

Rule's broken leg was worse now; the slightest movement brought a groaning curse.

When Furlong gave the tired pony a breather and asked Rule if he wanted a cigarette, Ike didn't answer. Furlong lit a match, observed that Rule's hands were tightly clasped around the saddle horn. (To Be Continued)
